Dear Friend,

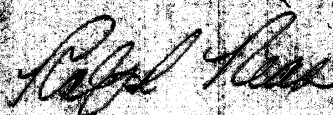

One year ago this week I fell victim to a frightening, painful and debilitating disease called Guillain-Barre Syndrome (French Polio). It crept methodically through my body. Ultimately I was paralyzed, unable to move, to speak, or to see clearly. Machines kept me alive and then just barely. Thank God, after months of intensive care and therapy, I am now almost recovered.

GBS strikes some 10,000 people in the United States annually. As many as 500 of them may die. You probably remember the epidemic that followed the swine flu shots in 1977.

The cause of GBS is unknown. And there is no known cure. However, because of research at Johns Hopkins University and elsewhere, a breakthrough may be imminent.

Please join us in supporting this research by attending, or contributing to, the benefit for GBS. Your generosity could help solve the mystery of GBS and that of other serious neurological diseases.

Sincerely,

Ralph Neas
